Creation and Evolution Controversy

Wikipedia

The creation–evolution controversy is a recurring theological and cultural-political dispute about the origins of the Earth, humanity, life, and the universe,<sup>[1]</sup> between those who espouse the validity and/or superiority of literal interpretations of a creation myth, and the proponents of evolution, backed by scientific consensus.

Rev. Michael Dowd
Evolution Evangelist

USA Today March 11 2009

“Evolution, he said, is a reality the Apostle Paul, the Reformation’s Martin Luther, Islam’s prophet Muhammad and other religious leaders couldn’t have known without telescopes and microscopes...

...Prior to an evolutionary understanding, a scientific understanding, it was just difficult to explain how the world came to be, how the Atlantic Ocean was formed, how the moon came into being.”

Mingling Science with Religion

“...some critics argue that these kinds of efforts run the risk of co-mingling science and religion which, in the most benign sense, are two very different ways of looking at the world. Quantum Gaps in Big Bang Theory:
Why our best explanation of how the universe
evolved must be fixed or replaced

Physicist H.S. Lipson
“A Physicist View of Darwin’s Theory

“We now know a great deal more about living matter than Darwin knew. We know how nerves work and I regard each nerve as a masterpiece of electrical engineering. And we have thousands of millions of them in our body. We know how the muscles expand and contract and we know how our hearts beat. But we do not yet know how we think. The brain has parts specifically designed for this purpose.”

H.S. Lipson (cont)

“ ‘Design’ is the word that springs to mind, on this subject. My biologist colleagues do not like it. They say that I should not object to a theory unless I have a better scientific one to replace it, a scientific one being a theory that can be falsified. My unscientific theory is that we have been designed in a macromutational way by an external creator. All the evidence supports this view but, of course, it cannot be sustained scientifically.”

Astronomer David Darling
“On Creating Something from Nothing”

New Scientist

“Don’t let the cosmologists try to kid you on this one. They have not a clue either---despite the fact that they are doing a pretty good job of convincing themselves and others that this is really not a problem. ‘In the beginning,’ they will say, ‘there was nothing—no time, no space, matter or energy. Then there was a quantum fluctuation from which...Whoa’ Stop right there. You see what I mean? First there is nothing, then there was something. And the cosmologists try to bridge the two with a quantum flutter, a tremor of uncertainty that sparks it all off. Then they are away and before you know it, they have pulled a hundred billion galaxies out of their quantum hats.”

David Raup-Field Museum of Natural History Bulletin

“Well, we are now about 120 years after Darwin and the knowledge of the fossil record has been greatly expanded. We now have a quarter of a million fossil species, but the situation hasn't changed much. The record of evolution is still surprisingly jerky and, ironically, we have even fewer examples of evolutionary transition than we had in Darwin's time.”

- The blueprint of each human life is displayed as a twisted ladder containing a 4 letter alphabet separated into 2 letter pairs.
- The DNA never leaves the nucleus
- Only the mRNA goes outside the nucleus and contains a duplicate of the DNA letters
- The letters are strung out in a continuous line and separated into 3 letter roots called codons.
- Human life contains 22 amino acids

DNA and the Hebrew roots

- The four letters are called Adenine, Guanine, Thymine and Cytosine.
- Thymine is left behind and Uracil is picked up

“Like all planets in our solar system, Saturn "sings" with powerful radio signals. Scientists used data collected by the Cassini spacecraft's radio and plasma wave science instrument to produce some of Saturn's sounds so that we can appreciate the "natural music" back here on Earth. When musician and space enthusiast Jeff Oster listened to some of these Saturn sounds, he felt that it belonged in a piece that he was working on at the time.”

Dark matter and dark energy

Nasa.gov – Dark matter

“It is material that does not emit sufficient light for us to directly detect it, yet there are a variety of ways that we can indirectly detect it. The most common method involves the fact that the dark matter has a gravitational pull on both the light and the sources of light that we can see. From the effects of “extra” gravity that we detect, we infer how much mass must be present.”

- nasa.org - In the early 1990's, one thing was fairly certain about the expansion of the Universe. It might have enough energy density to stop its expansion and recollapse, it might have so little energy density that it would never stop expanding, but gravity was certain to slow the expansion as time went on. Granted, the slowing had not been observed, but, theoretically, the Universe had to slow. The Universe is full of matter and the attractive force of gravity pulls all matter together. Then came 1998 and the Hubble Space Telescope (HST) observations of very distant supernovae that showed that, a long time ago, the Universe was actually expanding more slowly than it is today. So the expansion of the Universe has not been slowing due to gravity, as everyone thought, it has been accelerating. No one expected this, no one knew how to explain it. But something was causing it.
